

ABOUT THE STATE

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS

Rev. E. W. Wild was installed as pastor of the Congregational church at Westminster last week.

Rutland health authorities think that some of the cases of scarlet fever in that city have been transmitted by cats and dogs.

Edith Flower of Rupert, who fell from a staging in his barn to a concrete floor, striking on his head, died recently from the effects of the fall.

Joseph Beaton of Castleton caught a pickerel through the ice on Lake Bomoseen recently which was 40 inches long and weighed 16½ pounds.

Mrs. E. P. Dunham of Athens has a plant curiosity—an onion cactus—on which is one blossom, borne on a long stem, and one of the leaves of the plant is nearly three feet long.

Mrs. A. T. Barron, widow of a former owner of the hotel at White River Junction, died this week in New York, aged 83 years. She was a resident of White River Junction for many years.

The town of Bristol has reduced its debt nearly $3,000 during the past year, but it is now $50,852.25. The tax last year was 200 cents on the dollar and will have to be as high again this year in order to reduce the debt still further.

A vicious horse belonging to Joseph Brown of Weybridge, standing in front of a store in Middlebury, bit little Florence Forest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Forest of the latter place on the car, as she was going home from school Thursday. Had it not been that she wore a top, her ear would undoubtedly have been bitten off.

John Dupree died Feb. 22 at his home in West Arlington as a result of injuries received a few days ago while he was logging. As he came down a hill, a heavily loaded sled slewed and struck him in the chest, knocking him to the ground. His skull was fractured. He was 33 years of age and leaves a mother, a wife and three children.

Prof. George K. Cherie of Newfane, who for the past ten months has been on an exploring trip in South America for the American Museum of Natural History, reached New York Feb. 20. He brought back with him some 3,000 bird and animal skins and specimens and 1,500 photographs of wild animal life for the museum. This was his 28th tropical exploration trip.

Mrs. Lydia M. Brackett, who six months ago reached the age of 101 years, died Friday at her home in Jamaica Plain, Mass. She retained all her faculties up to a short time ago, and until two years ago could read a newspaper without the aid of glasses. She was born in Springfield, N. H. Joseph Kimball and Mrs. Martha Alger of Wilder are a nephew and niece of Mrs. Brackett, and another nephew is Frank Kimball of Stratford.

At a public sale held in New York City Feb. 8 and 9, one book, which was written in Vermont, was sold for $73.50. It was "A History of the Indian Wars," written by Rev. Daniel S. Sanders, U. V. M., in 1812. It is one of the rarest books relating to the North American Indians, and but few copies are in existence, as on account of a bitter and somewhat unjust criticism the author suppressed and destroyed the work as far as possible, only a few copies getting into circulation.

A Bellows Falls man who went to a town near Rutland to attend a funeral, made a corner in potatoes while there and cleared $260. The story goes that a farmer in the town where he went had 400 bushels for sale, for which Edward Stapleton from Bellows Falls agreed to pay $1.60 per bushel, delivered at the car. Before they had started on their journey to Bellows Falls another dealer came along and offered $2.25 per bushel for the lot, which Mr. Stapleton took and thereby made $260.

Rutland court had before it a case Saturday which called for and received a lenient sentence. Raymond J. Perkins was before the court for intoxication, but he is not a drinking man usually and when the court heard his story it was willing to make allowance. Mr. Perkins has a wife who has been sick in bed for 13 weeks with scarlet fever, and he also has five small children. When he worked he received $2 per day, but employment has not been very steady and because he could not afford to hire a helper in the family he had been putting in his evenings doing the housework, acting as nurse to his wife and caring for the children. He stated it was the condition of his home affairs which had driven him to take a drink, and he requested an officer to arrest him when he realized his condition. Ordinarily he would have been fined $5 or gone to jail for 15 days or more, but the court released him and told him to pay a little when he could.

An Inter-State Obligation.

A most curious situation that in other times would arouse widespread interest and command the close attention of the country is the apparent defiance of the United States supreme court by the state of West Virginia in the Virginia debt case. West Virginia was adjudged in debt to Virginia to the amount of $12,000,000, but West Virginia refused to pay. On petition of Virginia, not long ago, the supreme court has issued a rule of mandamus requiring the members of the West Virginia legislature to show cause why they have not provided for the payment of the $12,000,000 debt. In consequence, processes have been served by United States deputy marshals on every member of the legislature, in each case summoning him to appear before the United States supreme court on March 6. The session of the court on March 6 will be in effect a joint session of a court and a state legislature, in which the legislature, however, cannot appear evidently as an organized body. It seems to be a case of recalcitrance involving lawmaking functions, or a strike by legislators against a judicial decree. How the court will proceed, how it will enforce its judgment, how it will coerce a state—these are questions of peculiar interest. In any event, the state of West Virginia seems to have forgotten its honor. After years of litigation, it should accept the court's decision and pay up.—Springfield Republican.

WOMEN GIVE OUT

Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every Barre woman who is having backache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to heed this Barre woman's experience: Mrs. F. Cassiva, 24 Farewell street, Barre, says: "Sometimes my kidneys showed signs of weakness. I suffered quite a bit from heavy pains across my back, and they bothered me when I found it necessary to do any bending. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Cummings & Lewis' drug store, relieved me. Occasional use since has always given satisfactory results."

Price 50c at all dealers'. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Cassiva had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

TUBERCULOSIS PREVENTION.

Simple Precautions By Which Others May Keep the Disease from Their Animals.

Tuberculosis is the commonest and most widely prevalent of all contagious diseases. There are many other infections, however, which are much more easily spread and to which the body of the average man or animal is much less resistant. The explanation of these apparently inconsistent facts is to be found in the appearance of perfect health which victims of the disease often possess long after they have become active disseminators of the tubercle germ. It is thus possible for the disease to be introduced into herds and to become firmly established in them without the knowledge of the owner.

Live stock can be protected against this insidious disease by the practice of two rules, which may be stated as follows:

(1) Never introduce an animal into a healthy herd or flock unless there is positive proof that it comes from a healthy herd or flock.

(2) Consult your veterinarian regarding the special tests which can be made to prove whether animals are free from serious and common diseases and make sure that no animals are added to healthy herds unless these tests, combined with a period of segregation, show that they are free from infection.

In its insidious and chronic character infectious abortion somewhat resembles tuberculosis. The germs of this disease may be spread by animals that are apparently healthy, and precautions similar to those adopted for tuberculosis should therefore be taken to prevent its dissemination.

The essential cause of tuberculosis is the tubercle bacillus. Unless this germ is present there can be no tuberculosis. Furthermore, as far as we know, the germ does not seem able to grow anywhere but in the bodies of its victims, and it is not able to establish itself in a new victim unless the animal is exposed to it repeatedly or for relatively long periods of time, or under peculiarly unfavorable conditions. Despite the prevalence of the disease, therefore, it is possible to guard against it by doing away with the conditions that favor its spread. Unhygienic conditions prepare animals for the development of tuberculosis in much the same manner as cultivation prepares a piece of land for the production of a crop. Nevertheless, even under such conditions, tuberculosis can not develop without the tubercle bacilli any more than a crop can be produced in a cultivated field without seed.

To prevent tuberculosis in live stock, therefore, the germs should be kept away by the precautions already outlined: First, prevent the introduction of infected animals into the herd or flock; and secondly, the surroundings of live stock should be such that the animals are kept in sufficiently good condition to resist the chance attacks of the germ.

HATCH CHICKENS EARLY.

Fresh Eggs Will Be Scarce Next Fall and Winter.

Did it ever occur to you that nature requires her children to take an annual vacation? She does, and nowhere do human beings puzzle their brains over this fact more than when the hens begin their yearly holiday. This vacation is technically called the "moulting season." The hens stop laying, and change their suits of feathers for new ones. Usually they consume three or four months in the process. Most of us know this perfectly well, but are apt to overlook the fact that a very important feature of the moulting period is that egg laying stops. We are unreasonable and expect the hens to lay all the time. When the hens take this vacation new-laid fresh eggs are scarce and remain scarce until the pullets hatch during the preceding spring begin to lay.

The Remedy.

The remedy is very simple, and is under the control of the poultry man. The first step is to have chickens hatched early, so that the pullets begin to lay when the hens begin to molt. This is not difficult. Pullets of the American breeds begin laying at about seven months of age. Leghorn pullets begin when about six months old. North of the Ohio river this means that all hatching must be over by May 1 at the latest. The best plan is to have the chickens coming at intervals during March and April. The earliest hatched pullets will, of course, begin to lay first. If any of them begin to molt, their places will be taken by the later ones and a steady supply of eggs will be more certain.

The Difficulty.

The difficulty in the way of the practical application of this matter is that so many poultry keepers are dependent on hens for hatching. As long as we have late hatched chickens we will have late sitters. The poultry keeper who wants to change from late hatching to early hatching must therefore either get broody hens from some one else or use an incubator. After he has "changed the dates" on his flock he will have no trouble, especially with the American breeds.

Can It Be Done?

Every progressive poultry raiser who has tried it, every agricultural college and the government, have data showing that early hatching will produce fall and winter layers. In the government flock during the past winter the pullets of the entire flock averaged over 20 per cent in egg production, and some pens made 35 per cent. That means, in plain language, that the egg production for all the pullets was one egg daily for every three hens. This, too, when fresh eggs sold up to 75 cents per dozen in Washington. This could not have been done except by early hatching.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. It is now cured by local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, it acts internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case of Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

"Come on Over, See My Corn Fall Off!"

"I Put a Drop of 'Get-It' on Last Night—Now Watch—"

"See—all you have to do is to use your two fingers and lift the corn right off. That's the way 'Get-It' always works. You just put on two drops. Then the corn not only shrives—"

"That Was a Quick Funeral That Corn Had With 'Get-It'!"

els, but loosens from the toe, without affecting the surrounding flesh in the least. Why, it's almost a pleasure to have corns and see how 'Get-It' gets them off in a hurry and without the least pain. I can wear tight shoes, dance and walk as though I never had corns. 'Get-It' makes the use of toe-irritating salves, bandaging, blisters, and other things not only foolish, but unnecessary. Use this wonderful discovery, 'Get-It,' for any soft or hard corn or callous. It is the new, simple 'Get-It' and it never fails. You'll never have to cut a corn again with knives or scissors, and run chances of blood poisoning. 'Get-It' is sold everywhere.
